THE DEATH OF OBI'S MOTHER

Obi's girlfriend Clara was in hospital for seventy days. As soon as she felt better, she left Lagos and went to her village. Obi wanted to pay her the fifty pounds he had borrowed from her. But he was not able to do that. He did not have enough money.

Then came more bad news. His mother died. He sent as much money as he could to pay for the funeral. He decided not to go to Umuofia himself. It was better to send money than spend it on petrol for his car.

But the money Obi sent was not enough. A member of the village association was in Umuofia when Obi's mother died. He told everyone that it was shameful. She had given birth to a son who had been educated in England. She should have had a much better funeral. And it was a greater shame that Obi had not gone to Umuofia for the funeral.

Mr. Green, his director gave him two days' leave. He went home and locked himself in his flat. He lay in the bed until he heard a knock at the door. It was Joseph, his friend.

Joseph arrived with a box of cold beer. People from Umuofia began to arrive. They greeted Obi and said they were sad to hear of his mother's death. Joseph gave them the cold beer. At last, they all went and Obi was left alone.
